Registration Guide for Fall 2023 Registration

Plan II Academic Advising

Summer AND Fall 2023 Registration begins on April 3. Be sure to check your Registration Information Sheet (RIS) for your specific registration access period, as well as any holds you may need to clear.

The Summer and Fall 2023 Course Schedule is posted online. You can access both course schedules and review course offerings.

View and run an Interactive Degree Audit (IDA), this tool can be used to determine which requirements are completed and which still need to be taken.

Plan II will also be providing an option for students to request an advising worksheet. An advisor will review your record and provide suggested courses to enroll in, the worksheet can be used in lieu of meeting with an advisor. You can request an advising worksheet here.

Required Plan II Coursework for the 2023-2024 academic year for Second, Third, and Fourth-Year students.

Second-Year Students

Philosophy (PHL 610QA) Problems of Knowledge and Valuation

- Students are required to take the full year-long sequence, both the fall (PHL 610QA) and spring (PHL 610QB) semesters, with the same professor. There is no lottery, students self-select their PHL section and enroll themselves.

- Both the fall and spring PHL 610Q courses are worth three credit hours each, six total credit hours for the year-long sequence.

- Students planning a semester away from UT Austin next year (study abroad, etc.) should discuss the timing of the PHL 610Q sequence with a Plan II academic advisor.

Note: PHL 610QA and QB are not offered in summer and are only offered in residence.

There are several sections of PHL 610QA from which to choose, see below for options.

The following PHL 610AQ sections are available for Fall 2023:

Third-Year Students

One TC 358, Junior Seminar, should be taken in the fall of your third year, and another in the spring. If you are planning to study abroad during the 2023-2024 academic year, these courses can be moved to your fourth year.

Completion of two TC 358 courses is required before starting the senior thesis course, TC 660HA.

Note: each TC 358 section offered during either fall 23 or spring 24 is a unique topic with a specific professor; this is not a year-long sequence with the same topic/professor.

T C 358 Registration Policy

To ensure that students can register for the classes they need to progress in their degree plan, registering for multiple topics of T C 358 (Plan II Junior Seminar course) in the same semester is prohibited. Students who register for more than one section of T C 358 in the same semester will be dropped. Once everyone has had a chance to register for at least one T C 358, if seats remain open students may then attempt to register for an additional course. An announcement will be posted in Plan2News and on the cohort's Canvas website if or when students may register for additional T C 358 sections.

PLEASE NOTE: ONLY T C 358 sections fulfill the Junior Seminar requirement. T C courses offered under other numbers DO NOT fulfill the Plan II Junior Seminar requirement.
Detailed course descriptions for all TC 358 sections can be found here.

Note: TC 358 is not offered in summer and is only offered in residence.
